Our Story

Like everyone, we've got a story. And ours is a story about two people transforming how work gets done.

Two people sought to create business-led solutions by having humans train software robots, rather than gatekeeping them for techies writing complex codes and applications. But they couldn't just focus on the business-led solutions. They needed to look at the wider scope – at the governance.

That's where the first iteration of RPA came in. They coined the term robotic process automation (RPA) in 2012, and the rest... Well, it isn't history. It's the future!

Work With Us

At SS&C Blue Prism, we're redefining the future of work through automation – and we're looking for skilled individuals to join the journey. Take your career to the next level with SS&C Blue Prism.
