

DENSITRON

DENSITRON CORPORATION.

Company Description

Founded over 50 years ago in Japan, Densitron is a global business with offices across Asia, Europe and America. We are there when and where you need us, in your time zone, in person.

From our origins in display and touch screen technology, we have expanded our capability to cover a wide range of Human Machine Interface hardware, Computing and Control System Software. You can choose from our range of powerful off-the-shelf products, or we can fully customize a solution which is unique to you which incorporates our patented intellectual property.

Behind our products, we control a highly resilient supply chain, with quality processes refined over decades. This gives you the reassurance that in working with us you not only get access to great technology, but we make sure that it arrives on time in full and is highly reliable which means we can offer you support from anywhere across the globe.
