

Robertet Japon Ltd

Company Description

Our history

For 5 generations, Robertet has been a family-owned company specialized in the sourcing and transformation of natural raw materials used to create perfumes, flavors and active ingredients in the health & beauty sectors.

Our vision

Natural and organic products are part of a deep consumer trend, whether they are products for well-being, beauty or health. Traceability and transparency are at the heart of consumers' expectations. And Robertet responds with ever greater passion with a particularly integrated sourcing and with quality, innovative, sustainable and environmentally friendly products.

Our expertise

From seed, to harvest, transformation, extraction, refinement, and finally release, Robertet integrates all stages of the creative process. Using a very integrated positioning to sourcing, Robertet has developed a real expertise of the whole supply chain in natural products from their culture to their transformation and use in fragrances, flavors, and health and beauty products. Several entities specialized in organic extracts like Sirius has consolidated the Group's sourcing through new integrated channels and strengthened our leading position in organic products.

Our traceability

Natural raw materials are our raison d'être; therefore, protecting the environment is our second nature! Our presence at the source, a guarantee of quality, meets the demand for traceability and transparency of our customers and end-consumers. In 2017, Robertet has defined a CSR strategy for 2025 to highlight its commitment regarding sustainability. Organized in 4 major areas, our sustainable management system covers the global supply chain, from the culture of the plants to the final sales.
