

PERI Japan K. K.

Company Description

PERI was founded in 1969 by Artur Schwörer. The company's name is taken from the Greek preposition "peri" (English: around). Forty years later, the family-managed company is one of the top 50 companies in federal state Bavaria. Over the last few years, it has achieved above-average growth in new staff and turnover.

With over a billion euros of turnover in 2008, PERI with head office in Weissenhorn is the largest manufacturer and supplier of formwork and scaffolding systems in the world and is a skilled partner of construction companies. And we continue to grow: through the large-scale expansion of the production facilities at the main production plant in Weissenhorn, PERI has set the course for the future. Large, world-wide combined numbers of units lead to favourable manufacturing costs and reliable quality due to a high level of automation. With 5,200 employees, 48 subsidiaries and 100 high-capacity storage sites across the globe, PERI serves its customers with innovative system equipment and a broad range of services to realise construction projects in the most cost-effective manner possible.

The broad range of equipment and systems offers the perfect solution for every requirement: formwork girders, panel and wall formwork, column formwork, slab formwork, climbing scaffold, platform systems, self-climbing formwork, shoring, slab props, push-pull props, formlining, brace frames for single-face concreting as well as anchoring systems. However, the PERI range of services goes far beyond production and system equipment sales and rental. In order that we can provide the most economical option possible, more than 850 PERI engineers worldwide – who are close to the customers and entrusted with their requirements – develop individual problem solutions. Additionally PERI offers comprehensive services around formwork and scaffolding technology, perfectly tailored to the needs of the construction industry: Rental equipment services, cleaning and repair, formwork assembly, seminars and workshops at the PERI training centre and on-site briefings, through to the development of the company's own planning software.
