Job Description

As a Techno-Functional Business Analyst specializing in Collateral Management, you will translate business requirements for margin calculation, interest accruals, and regulatory norms into actionable plans. You will collaborate with business and technology teams to ensure stakeholder approval for necessary changes across cash equities, structured financing, and derivatives business lines.

Client Details

As Japan's leading securities and investment banking firm, this company offers comprehensive wealth management, investment advisory, and specialized corporate services, including M&A advisory and securities underwriting.

Description

- Create detailed documents, including Business Requirement Documents (BRDs) and data flow diagrams.
- Act as a liaison between technology and business teams to clarify functional issues.
- Manage requirements throughout the project lifecycle, including design review, testing, and implementation planning.
- Build and maintain strong relationships with project team members, stakeholders, and business representatives.
- Use domain knowledge to assist in resolving complex queries during production outages.
