

Job Description

Job Responsibilities

- Being proactive in identifying and developing new business opportunities via effective selection and categorization of customers.
- Practice effective account planning, preparation and reporting by ensuring concise and effective update of reports as required by management.
- Demonstrate effective account management and development via Account analysis to establish a deep understanding of the customer's business and their problems/concerns and priorities
- Achieve sales and GP budgets through product demonstration with confidence and credibility to customers the technical and commercial benefits of our Client's products and their differentiation from the competition
- Undertake effective up to date market trend, information analysis of situations and data and thus providing feedback to management team to drive continuous improvement
- Play a key role in securing excellent, valid commercial contractual terms by Assessing and identifying opportunities to reduce commercial risk, and negotiating of appropriate contractual terms and conditions and obligations
- Collaborate with engineering team to keep tabs on post-sales feedback and support technical assistance to address
 customer concerns

Job Requirements

Candidate with experience in Automotive/ Semiconductor/ Medical/ Aerospace for material (steel/ Special Steel/ Non-

- Ferrous)Candidate who is well verse in incotermsAble to speak English/Mandarin/ MalayPreferably below age 45

Company Description