Job Description

We are searching for an FP&A Analyst. The ideal candidate will possess strong financial modeling skills, a deep understanding of budgeting and forecasting. You will closely work with the sales team to provide insights to improve the company's financial performance.

Client Details

Our client is a large American Semi-conductor company. Renowned for their innovation and high-quality products, they have a significant market presence internationally and here in Japan.

Description

- Develop financial models and analyses to support strategic initiatives.
- Present monthly and quarterly financial reports of various units and departments to senior management.
- Conduct competitive benchmarking and analyze market trends.
- Collaborate with the sales team to enhance financial reporting and assist with the budget and forecast process.
- Identify and drive process improvements, including the creation of standard and ad-hoc reports, tools, and Excel dashboards.

Job Offer

- A competitive salary going up 9,000,000 JPY.
- A global work environment for one of the highest performing semi-conductor companies today.
- The company fosters a culture encouraging collaboration and new ideas.
