Job Description

This is a fantastic opportunity for an analytical professional to join the Risk team at a globally recognized financial institution. The role focuses on supporting card lending products, identifying performance trends, and driving strategic decisions across the Japan market.

Client Details

Our client is a leading global financial services company with a strong presence in Japan. Known for innovation and customer-first solutions, the company offers dynamic career paths in risk management, analytics, and product strategy.

Description

- Design and monitor risk strategies for card lending products (Revolve, Installment).
- Analyze key metrics, identify trends, and recommend risk mitigation approaches.
- Partner with Product, Marketing, and Operations teams to support growth strategies.
- Leverage data to derive insights that inform credit and fraud risk decisions.
- Develop knowledge of internal systems and regulatory frameworks.
- Understand market conditions and competitor practices to identify opportunities.
- Support continuous improvement in customer experience and profitability.

Job Offer

- Contribute to innovation in lending within a top-tier financial firm.
- Hybrid work flexibility and competitive compensation.
- Career development and international exposure.
- Inclusive culture with strong team collaboration.

If you are a motivated professional who is excited by the prospect of driving risk management initiatives in a global financial organization, we look forward to your application.
