募集要項

Company Profile

One of the major global players in the pharmaceutical sector, with a strong presence and stable history in Japan.

The Role

- You will be leading the development of omnichannel platforms by working with cross-functional business leaders to understand their requirements and develop appropriate solutions for their Salesforce platform.
- You will be working with a variety of technical and non-technical stakeholders, so knowing how to speak and address issues with non-IT personnel and tech-professionals will be equally important.
- Essentially, the role will focus on solution design and the implementation of Salesforce Marketing Cloud, Data Cloud, etc.; and you'll be leading a small team of engineers to achieve these goals.

Your Skills

- You will need high business level Japanese and English abilities for this role - candidates without both cannot be considered.
- Someone with IT Consultancy experience, or an experience BRM / Business Analyst who has focused on DX projects, IT strategy, and platform/system rollouts would be ideal for this role, and we can consider candidates experience from any industry.
- Previous experience of working on CRM projects (ideally SFDC) would be a huge advantage.

Location

Tokyo or Osaka

Salary

11M - 14.5M JPY

Selling points

- You'll be joining of the most stable pharmaceutical companies in the world.
- You'll have the opportunity to work on plenty of innovative projects in a multicultural environment, working with local and overseas business/tech stakeholders.
- Due to the global nature of the company, internal movement globally in the future is possible - there have been many cases for employees to transfer, at varying levels of seniority.
