募集要項

Company Profile

A multinational European engineering company who provide a range of services including, but not limited to, factory automation solutions, energy efficiency, and sustainability consultancy. They are a huge business with a major presence in Japan, APAC, and globally.

The Role

- You will be the Japan IT lead and will manage a small team of people who will drive a number of transformation projects relating to the company's IT infrastructure, applications, and enterprise-wide systems. You'll be working with other business leaders locally and in global/regional teams to develop the IT roadmap and strategy for Japan, and you'll also be controlling the IT budget.

- There are some planning transformation programs which will be focused on standardizing ERP systems across the organization, so you'll also play a key role in these long-term projects.

Your Skills

- Business Japanese and Fluent English are mandatory for this role.
- Previous experience of leading an IT team of at least 3-5 people as a minimum is needed for this role.
- An all-round IT background, with experience of delivering infrastructure and applications focused projects is also needed for this role.
- The position would suit an IT leader who has worked in an international or matrixed organization and is looking for a bigger challenge.

Location

Tokyo

Salary

14M - 16.5M JPY

Selling points

- This is a large, stable, multinational business which operates in business sectors that are critical for many parts of everyday life. They have been in Japan for more than 50 years and have more than 3000 employees here.
- This position will see you focus on high-level leadership and work with senior business stakeholders in Japan, APAC, and globally.
