募集要項

- Join a global pharmaceutical company as a Portfolio Project Manager, where you'll work with senior leadership and cross-functional brand teams to lead strategic launch planning and marketing transformation. This is a high-impact role driving operational excellence across product launches and portfolio projects in Japan.

Client Details

- Our client is an international pharmaceutical company with a strong commercial presence in Japan. The team is focused on launch readiness and operational improvement across a broad therapeutic portfolio. The company promotes a collaborative working culture, encourages innovation, and values individuals who can manage complexity while aligning local execution with global strategy.

Description

- Lead the implementation of the new launch excellence framework in Japan
- Manage launch planning, readiness reviews, simulations, and cross-functional alignment
- Coordinate transversal projects across global and local teams to optimize marketing operations
- Drive innovation initiatives and transformation planning through structured governance and KPI tracking
- Collaborate with internal stakeholders in commercial, medical, market access, regulatory, legal, and R&D functions
- Monitor project progress and propose data-driven corrective actions as needed
- Support marketing operation model design and ensure compliance with internal and external regulations
